An Enjoyable Recital.

The vocal pupils of Mr. Otto Torney Simon gave an interesting recital at Knabe's Hall last evening before an audience that filled the hall and was representative of the best musical culture of the The participating pupils were Ernestine Rowland, Mary Valk, Alexander Mosher and John Duffey, all of whom sang in good form and received merited applause. The vocal feature was the singing by Mr. Duffey of a song cycle by Von Fielitz, all the numbers of which he gave with artistic effect and some of them with genuine dramatic intensity. The accompanicellent taste and skill. Arthur D. Mayo contributed two piano solos—one a minuet and march by Raff and the other Moszkowski's Etude in G flat, and in both numbers evidenced his technical skill and artistic temperament. At the close of the program the performers and Mr. Simon were warmly congratulated.

THE EVENING STAR CUP

TO BE PLAYED FOR BY TEAMS FROM THE LOCAL GOLF CLUBS.

Emblematic of the Championship of the District-Conditions of the Contest.

The Evening Star Newspaper Company recently notified the presidents of the four golf clubs of the District that it was willing to present a handsome silver cup to be played for by teams from the different clubs annually and to carry with it the championship of the District of Columbia. The offer was enthusiastically received and has already aroused a great deal of interest among local golfers. The cup is to become the permanent property of the club winning it three times, not necessarily in succession, however.

Each club was requested to appoint a epresentative on a committee to make arrangements for the contests, the committee to have entire charge, The Star reserving nothing but the privilege of giving the cup. While the design for the trophy has not yet been accepted, it can be said that the cup will be entirely satisfactory and well worth playing for.

Accepted by the Clubs.

The following letter was received from Mr. William A. Gordon, president of the Dumbarton Club:

"The members of our club most highly appreciate the generous spirit which prompted your company to donate a trophy for the golfers of the District, and will be pleased to be represented on the committee in charge of the preliminary arrangements. Alex. Britton, president of the Columbia "I am in receipt of your letter stating that The Evening Star Newspaper Company is willing to donate a silver cup to contested for annually by the teams from the different golf clubs of the District, and to be held as a trophy of the championship of the District.

"This offer is in accord with the public spirit which The Evening Star Newspaper Company has always evidenced; is particularly appreciated at the present time and will no doubt largely tend to further en-courage the spirit of friendly rivalry between the different clubs. I am authorized to say that the Columbia Golf Club is not only agreeable to your offer, but is under many obligations for the same, and I have appointed Dr. Walter S. Harban, vice president of the club, as a member of the committee referred to by you as having in charge the preliminary arrangements."

> After an informal discussion, lasting for a couple of hours, rules and regulations governing the first year's play were unaniconsist of at least eight players and for this year the number was fixed at ten. This year two pairs are to play home and home matches, and the winners to play the finals, also home and home matches, in the fall, on dates to be decided later. As a result of a drawing the following combinations and dates were arranged for the opening games: Chevy Chase and Dumbarton, on the Dumbarton links, June 8, and at Chevy Chase, June 15; Columbia and Washington, on the Rosslyn links, May 25, and at Columbia, June 8. Colonel Denny and Dr. Harban were appointed a subcommittee to settle upon the method of scoring the matches.

It is expected that next year the matches will be begun earlier in the season, so that each club will have a chance to play home and home matches with every other club.

COLUMBIA THEATER. - The second week of the Columbia's season of musical comedy was opened last night with a production of "The Geisha." The prospects, measured by the well-filled and gladsome stage, and a correspondingly well-filled and gladsome auditorium, are decidedly auspicious. "The Geisha" has been popular in Washington since its first presentation, and deservedly so, for not since the "Mikado" has there appeared a more pleasing musical production of this class. With its en-trancing melodies, its beautiful setting and the general air of daintiness, "The Geisha" furnishes three hours of unalloyed delight. Throughout the production there runs a trace of humor, never so broad as to become more than a mere shadow of burlesque.

The opera was effectively presented last night. The chorus was well trained and the work of the orchestra was excellent. The scenic effects were handled to advantage and the costuming of the play added to its beauty. Miss Elgie Bowen as O Mimosa San, made a most bewitching Gelsha. Her voice and figure seem suited to the accepted interpretation of the character of a Geisha girl. Last night Miss Bowen captivated the audience with her song "The Pearl of Asia," and won four encores. John Park as Reggie Fairfax showed him-self the possessor of a good voice and sufficient self-possession to aid in carrying along some of the less confident members of the support. Paula Edwardes as Molly Seamore received several encores for her clever acting and dancing and for her gen-uine and effervescent humor. Henry Norman, as the Marquis Imari, and Joseph Cenyers, as Wun Hi, the Chinaman, carried the principal comedy roles, and se-cured a liberal share of laughs. Grace Belmont, as the dashing French girl, without whom no musical comedy is complete, was a sprightly and amusing personage. In some respects this production of "The Geisha" is a more ambitious one than has been previously given here. Both Miss Belmont and Mr. Park had songs which have not been customarily included in presentations of the piece. These numbers were among the lyrics more liberally favored with applause. The lateness of the hour showed an over-amiable intention on the part of the management to assure value received in quantity as well as in

LAFAYETTE SQUARE OPERA HOUSE. The reconstructed Lafayette Square Stock at Carroll Institute Hall, on 10th street Company last evening produced Pinero's above New York avenue. A social smoker "The Magistrate." Those who attend the performances of the stock company regularly have acquired the habit of leaving the theater well satisfied, and last evening proved no emphatic exception to the rule, although from an artistic standpoint the work of the organization was somewhat lacking. "The Magistrate," a farce in four acts, is by the author of such well-known successes as "Sweet Lavender," "The Amazons" and "Trelawney of the Wells," and is thoroughly humorous. It tells of a widow of thirty-six years with a son nineteen years of age. In contracting a sec-ond matrimonial alliance she reduces her age five years, and in consequence finds it necessary to have her son masquerade as a lad of fourteen. This family skeleton in due season leaves its cupboard and finally crumbles, but before doing so gives rise to all sorts of complications. Minnie Radcliffe, the new leading lady of the stock company, has very little to do, the brunt of the work falling to Louise Mackintosh, who looks after the part of the widow who married again, in the capable manner so familiar to the admirers of the company. Robert Rogers, in the character of his initial appearance as an actor with this company. He portrayed the boy who is compelled to masquerade as a mere infant. It was not originally intended that Mr. Seymour should play the part, but a disappointment occurred and the stage manager flung himself into the breach and played the role with real juvenile humor. It was plain, even to those not previously informed on the subject, that Mr. Seymour had acted before. 'The sacrifice of his mustache did not suffice to enable him to pass for an infant prodigy. It was one of the portliest, but at the same time one of the most amusing small boys the local stage has seen in some time. John T. Sullivan had a congenial part as a British army officer on the retired list, giving utterance to 'By Jove" as though to the manner born. When the curtain has made its final descent next Saturday evening Mr. Sullivan will sever his connection with the Lafayette company for this season. Thos tendance last evening seemed to realize this and though the character he portrayed was not very important, Mr. Sullivan was warmly greeted every time he appeared on the stage. There was no mistaking the evidences of popularity which Mr. Sullivan has earned by good work. The remainder of the company had very little to do. The Ordway Rifles—Company D. 4th Battalion, District of Columbia National Guard-the members wearing full dress uniform, attended the performance last evening in a

CHASE'S THEATER.-In the half-dozen turns which are presented to the patrons of Chase's Theater this week there is none which stands out from the others with overtopping excellence, the bill being one of even balance. Though all the performers who danced and sang and joked last night are of ripe experience in the vaudeville field, the audience at no time was wrought to any remarkable degree of enthusiasm and toward some of the acts. not especially unworthy in comparison with the others, the audience was not quite so demonstrative as the performers might have wished. The Hungarian gypsy band ed before, after and during the and these musical gypsies, whose pale faces touch of sun or wind, were given a good deal of consideration by the audience. instrumentalists have been so completely shaved and otherwise tonsorially treated that no one would have suspected them of being a gypsy band were it not for the testimony presented against them on the program. The music of the Hungarian gypsy band is just as good as could be produced by a section of the regular orchestra of the theater. The decorations of the house were enthusiastically commended. Bits of tropic green were hung about the boxes and the lobby was banked with palms and flowering plants. The biograph pictures, though not so good as others which have been seen at Chase's, were probably the best executed, and to most of the audience of the best features of last night's bill. Al. Shean and Charles L. Warren did a boisterous sketch, entitled "A Laughable Travesty—Quo Vadis Upside Down." George Ober, Adelaid Ober, Frederick L. Power, Karline Karman and Hattie Sterns and the biograph presented an abridged edition of "Rip Van Winkle." The familiar scenes were prettily shown. Mrs. "Gen." Tom Thumb, assisted by Count Primo Magri and Baron Ernesto Magri, held the stage for half an hour with an act entitled "A Peep at Mars." The Dancing Dawsons and others rounded out the bill.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.-With Leah Lessi handling the stellar role, the ever-popular drama, "East Lynne," was presented at the Aacadmy of Music last night before a large and sympathetic concourse of peo-The play received a hearty welcome last night, as it has upon all its previous visits to this city. It is a play which interests people of all ages and conditions. The story deals with a young wife who leaves her husband—an honest man—out of uncalled-for jealousy. Believing him guilty of deceiving her, she runs away with a man who is a deep-dyed villain. This brings disgrace upon her for which she suffers untold misery; she seeks to gain the forgiveness of her husband, which she receives in her dying moments. Leah Lessi assumes the role of the wife and does some excellent work. William B. Winters portrays the husband in an exceptionally good manner, while George S. Trimble does the role of Sir Francis Levison, the villain, in such a way as to receive hisses from the audience. Hattie Neville, as Miss Cornella Carlyle, an old maid, and the guardian angel of the Carlyle family, causes much KERNAN'S LYCEUM.—Hurtig & Sea-mon's Social Maids Big Burlesque Company opened a return engagement at Kernan's Lyceum Theater yesterday afternoon and night, the attendance being large on both occasions. The aggregation as a whole is unusually strong and attractive, the new additions to the company since it was last here make it one of the best on the road. Both the opening and closing burlesques are given with more than the usual humor and dash, the costumes being handsome the girls pretty and the comedians, for a wonder, work along original lines. The olio proved entertaining and was well re-ceived. Clifford Gordan in a German dialect monologue deserves praise for present-ing something new. The Howard Sisters danced well. Wrothe and Wakefield still have their old turn, but it scored well nevertheless. Jeanette La Beau sang coon songs with considerable spirit and was well received. George Beban had nothing new, but he is a favorite, and his jokes were applauded. The Farrell-Taylor Trio made the hit of the olio on account of clever com-edy work and good singing and dancing. Lillian Durham closed the olfo with vocal selections, which would have been more appreciated if they had been of a more popular style of composition.

Accident to Lineman Who Was a Work on Building. Telephone Lineman Harvey J. Wright, thirty years old, met with a peculiar accident yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock while at work on a building at 8th and D streets southeast. The lineman was seated on the roof of the four-story building holding a coil of wire on his arm. Because of his position he was unable to see how low the end of the wire was, and one end of it became entagled in a passing street car and the wire tightened as the car moved along. Harvey held the wire in his right hand, and the moving car was pulling it at such a rate that there was danger of his being dragged from the roof to the ground. Realizing the seriousness of his position, Harvey held to the cornice, ex-pecting part of his hand to be pulled off. Fortunately the noise that formed about his hand climately the noise that formed about his hand slipped and the wire fell, but not before his hand had been badly cut.
The doctors at Providence Hospital found that three of his fingers had been cut, and it was necessary to amputate the index finger. After his fijury had been dressed, Wright went to his home, No. 1214 41/2

WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE. Swallows a Fatal Draught of Carbolic

Jessie Cook, colored, twenty-four years old, who was an inmate of house 1104 C to New York city a few nights ago. The 1 o'clock this morning by taking carbolic with a male friend, but she left no message to indicate the cause of the rash act. She was found in an unconscious condition by inmates of the house shortly after she had taken the fatal dose.

The ambulance was summoned and the unconscious woman was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where she died about 7:30 o'clock this morning. Coroner Nevitt deemed an inquest unnecessary and gave a necessary death certificate. Relatives or friends of the unfortunate woman will take charge of her body and give it a burial.
